

The South Reading Room of the Flower Library is also known as the Magazine Room and the Green Room. This room contains the mural of Roswell P. Flower by Naegele, ornate hand-cast plaster tiles on the ceiling, publishers' hallmarks from years ago, stained glass, and ornate mosaics on the fireplace. There are quotations above the windows and doors to inspire.

This room holds the magazines that can be checked out and also is a quiet place to read or use the library's wi-fi.